

Privacy Agreement

Collection of personal information

The Company shall request information from the Customer which is necessary for the Customer to open personal account. Providing such information is necessary condition which allows the Company to protect the Customer's interests, and the Customer to execute different transactions using personal account and not being concerned about safety of his/her/its assets. The Company shall be entitled to collect information which may contribute to improvement of appreciation of the Customer's needs and preferences.

All the information which is necessary for execution of communication between the Customer and the Company is collected directly from customers.

Use of personal information

Use by the Company of personal information of the Customer has for an object to provide the Customer with safe and qualitative service.

Personal and contact information which has been received from the Customer, shall be used during checking contact details and ascertainment of identity. The Company shall also use personal information of the Customer during creating an account, opening and adjustment of trading account, issue of codes of activation and passwords of access. Contact information of the Customer helps the Company improve its services and promptly inform the Customer about additional products, opportunities and promotions of the Company.

Branches and partners

At the Customer's request the Company may provide the information about services offered by the Company's branches and partners. For the purpose of providing more high-quality services the Company may carry out affiliate relations or conclude marketing agreements with other companies. In order to provide the Customer with full, well-timed and qualitative service the Company may exchange with its partners and branches. The use of personal information of the Customer shall be limited in this case.

Disclosure of Customer's information to the third party

The Company shall not be entitled to disclose personal information of the Customer except the cases described below.

The Company shall reserve the right to disclose personal information of the Customer to the third party if it is required by law-enforcement agencies and other state authorities. The Company shall be entitled to disclose the Customer's information which is necessary for provision to tax or credit authorities or in the cases when it is necessary for the purpose of protection of rights and property of the Company.

If the third party receives personal information of the Customer, thereby it shall take responsibility for protection of given information in order similar to the one described in the Agreement.

The Company may use personal information of the Customer only with the purpose of improvement of quality of services.

Liability restriction

If the Customer of the Company has decided to use services of other company and provided this company with his/her/its personal information the Customer must understand that safety of his/her/its personal data becomes responsibility of this company too. Before providing other company with personal information the Customer must learn privacy policy of this company. Web-site of the Company shall be in the Internet and that means that it may be connected with other web-site that's why the Customer needs to be careful and keep in mind that the Company shall not be responsible for privacy policy of other web-sites.

Use of cookies

In order to ensure effective work of web-site of the Company and trading activity of the Customer, the Company shall use cookies. Cookies shall represent small text files sent from web server of the Company to the Customer's computer. Cookies used by the Company shall not have any personal data, account numbers or passwords of the Customer.

The Company may involve other organizations in assistance in administration of web-site, collection and analysis of statistical data. Such organizations may establish and use their own cookies in the name of the Company and these cookies shall not have personal information of the Customer.

Communication

During registration the Customer receives a letter via e-mail which confirms his/her/its registration. The Company may send information about changes and new promotions to its customers via e-mail or receive from its customers e-mails with questions and requests, such information shall not be confidential.

By accepting the Agreement, the Customer shall allow the Company to use the information received from the Customer via e-mail, including various ideas, methods, marketing products and know-how without any consequent obligations from the Company. An exception shall be identification data of the Customer.

The Company shall be entitled to reverse, save or delete correspondence with the Customer at its absolute discretion.

The Company shall be entitled to follow up internal messages of customers with the purpose of appreciation of quality of offered services.

Changes in the Privacy Agreement

Sometimes the Company may upgrade the Agreement. In case of substantial changes in the Agreement, new Agreement of Privacy shall be placed on the Company's web-page without delay and all the customers shall be informed about changes. The Company recommends its customer read the Agreement from time to time in order to be aware of the way of use of customers' information.

Updating or deletion of personal information

We provide all visitors options for reviewing, changing, deleting, and modifying personally identifiable information previously provided. To update your organization's profile, user profiles, or to discontinue the service, please send a request to our Support Team. You can expect to receive a response to any such update request within seven (7) days.

Opt-Out policy

If, at any time after registering for information or ordering our services, you change your mind about receiving information from us or about the use of information volunteered by you, please send us a request specifying your new choice. To opt out of promotional emails, please send a request by completing a short contact form